

23rd annual TASS conference

WHO SHOULD ATTEND
 This conference is for all faculty, administrators, and student service personnel from two and four-year institutions, who care about and want to help marginally prepared students achieve success in college. Professionals involved with college-bound high school students will also benefit from attending the conference.

EMBASSY SUITES HOTEL
 The conference will be held at the Embassy Suites Hotel conference center, which will afford us the perfect environment for organized learning. Each suite offers comfortable accommodation in two fully equipped rooms with a kitchenette. Proximity to the Intracoastal Waterway and Fort Lauderdale's famous Water-taxi and Port Everglades, as well as beaches, restaurants, shopping, sporting, and entertainment venues, will allow you and your family a variety of educational and recreational activities.

ON COLLEGE CAMPUSES EVERYWHERE, there are students who are not well enough prepared academically to take full advantage of the available educational opportunities. How do we reach and help our largest educational minority – the marginally prepared college student?
 Teaching Academic Success Skills (TASS) conference participants explore various techniques and teaching philosophies used by educational specialists throughout the country. The keynotes and concurrent sessions cover a diversity of topics including reading, study skills, writing, math, technology, freshman orientation and other transitional experiences, multiculturalism on college campuses, student support services, academic advising, career planning, program administration, special needs (ESL, LD), as well as preparing high school students for college.

The TASS Conference is designed so that each participant can come away with practical ideas that can be implemented or shared with other colleagues at their institutions. ●

CONFERENCE SCHEDULE

Suzanne Walsh

9:00 - 9:40 AM • MONDAY, MARCH 19

SUZANNE WALSH is a senior program officer at the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation where she leads the Foundation's developmental education and new models strategies. Before joining Gates, Suzanne worked at two other foundations: The Lumina Foundation for Education in Indianapolis where she managed the Making Opportunity Affordable initiative; and The Heinz Endowments in Pittsburgh where her diverse portfolio included community colleges, universities, workforce development, tech commercialization and transfer, city/county consolidation, immigration and regional economic development. Her path into the field of philanthropy was circuitous, however. At Oklahoma Indian Legal Services in the late 1990s, Suzanne provided pro bono legal services to low-income Native Americans living in the western region of Oklahoma. Later, Suzanne joined Cuyahoga Community College in Cleveland. At the college, she was responsible for developing new programs and linking the college's workforce and economic development activities to the needs of the Northeast Ohio business community. In 2002, she was selected to as a distinguished German Marshall Fellow (one of 38 young American leaders). As a fellow, she traveled to Belgium, The Netherlands, Germany, Italy and Romania to improve transatlantic relations between the United States and the European Union, with a focus on economic development. Suzanne has her juris doctorate and masters in social work from Case Western Reserve University, a bachelor's of science from Cornell University, and an associate's degree in applied science from Hudson Valley Community College. ●

CONFERENCE SPEAKERS

Donna J. Yena

9:00 - 9:40 AM • TUESDAY, MARCH 20

Sponsored by McGraw-Hill Higher Education

DONNA YENA'S experience spans more than thirty years in career services and experiential education. Donna shares her experience and advice with students, faculty and career services teams in her textbook, Career Directions: The Path to Your Ideal Career and the Career Directions Handbook, now in fifth edition with McGraw-Hill. Donna's experience includes manager, instructor and curriculum designer as Vice President of Career Services, Vice President of Career Services and Alumni Relations and Vice President of Employer Relations at Johnson and Wales University. The University's total enrollment is 16,000 across four campuses which offer four year degrees in business and hospitality management and two and four year degrees in culinary arts. Yena implemented and led a series of career management education courses for students at Johnson and Wales, while responsible for experiential education programs for more than 4,000 students at four campuses. Yena is one of the University's certified DACUM (Developing a Curriculum) facilitators. For thirty consecutive years, 98% of Johnson and Wales University graduates were employed within sixty days of graduation, under Yena's leadership. Professional memberships include board member with The World Association of Cooperative Education and member of the Society for Human Resource Management, the National Association of Colleges and Employers and the Women's Foodservice Forum. As a nationally recognized speaker on career services, job placement, experiential education and student success, Donna has served as career association keynote speaker and leads seminars, workshops and in-service training for school professionals and their students across the country. ●

Please consider submitting a proposal for a paper presentation, panel presentation, or a focus group

Abstracts focusing on college students, classroom experiences, teaching strategies, study skills, student services, administrative services, and the use of technology in teaching and learning are invited, as well as proposals addressing college preparation for high school students.

Abstracts will be evaluated on the basis of clarity, relevance to the conference, timeliness, and interest to those engaged in helping college students to succeed. Priority will be assigned to presentations which discuss ideas and/or methods, or indicate a high level of knowledge and unique treatment of a topic.

This conference is NOT an appropriate forum for reading papers. Please use adult learning techniques and plan on audience interaction in your program. Explain your plan of facilitating the discussion. Leave at least 20 minutes for Q&A at the end of the session.

Paper presentations are limited to 45 minutes. Panel presentations are 90 minutes long and should include three or more presenters focusing on one topic. Panel presentations must include at least 30 minutes of discussion and other audience involvement. Focus group sessions are 90 minutes long.
